

Bo-Yeon Jang

www.boyeon-jang.com
bo-yeon_jang@brown.edu

BROWN UNIVERSITY

Placement Director: Toru Kitagawa	toru_kitagawa@brown.edu	401-863-3688
Graduate Administrator: Angelica Spertini	angelica_spertini@brown.edu	401-863-2465

References

Professor David N. Weil Brown University david_weil@brown.edu	Professor Matthew Turner Brown University matthew_turner@brown.edu	Professor Adam Storeygard Tufts University Adam.Storeygard@tufts.edu
--	---	--

EDUCATION

Brown University Ph.D. Candidate in Economics	Providence, RI, USA Expected 2026
Brown University M.A. Economics	Providence, RI, USA 2021
Columbia University B.A. Economics-Mathematics (Honors) and Sustainable Development	New York, NY, USA 2017

TEACHING AND RESEARCH FIELDS

Environmental Economics, Economic Growth, Demography

JOB MARKET PAPER

Adaptation and Evolving Climate Uncertainty

Adaptation is an increasingly attractive option for addressing economic damages from climate change, which are subject to significant climate uncertainty. However, uncertainty in climate damages is expected to change over time as the pace of decline in emissions is observed and geophysical models are improved. I leverage an ensemble of climate models to quantify the current extent and expected path of uncertainty. I incorporate the results into a real options model to quantify how raising the speed of uncertainty resolution increases welfare while reducing the necessary level of investment.

PUBLICATION

Bayer, A., Jang, B., & Wilcox, D. (2019). Who is being trained in economics? A new interactive website for exploring the race, ethnicity, and gender of Economics majors at U.S. colleges and universities. FEDS Notes.

RESEARCH PAPERS

Climate Change, Population Growth, and Population Pressure with J. Vernon Henderson, Adam Storeygard, and David N. Weil	Working Paper
Demographic Shifts and Fertility Measurement: The Case of South Korea	Work in Progress
Information, Insurance, and the Shadow Price of (No) Adaptation with Jiayue Zhang	Work in Progress
A Historical View of Family Ties in the United States with Daniel Crisostomo Wainstock	Work in Progress

RESEARCH EXPERIENCE

Department of Economics, Brown University Research Assistant for Professor David N. Weil	Providence, RI, USA Summer 2020, 2021
Federal Reserve Board of Governors Senior Research Assistant, Research & Statistics Division	Washington, D.C., USA 2017 – 2019
American Economics Association Summer Training Program Advanced Track, Michigan State University	East Lansing, MI, USA Summer 2016
Korea Advanced Institute of Science & Technology Summer Fellow, Nuclear Nonproliferation Education & Research Center	Daejeon, South Korea Summer 2014, 2015

TEACHING

Teaching Assistant at Brown University

• Statistical Methods and Economic Analysis for MPA (Professors: Jesse Bruhn, Alex Poterack, Bryce Steinberg, Neil Thakral)	Summer 2023, 2024, 2025
• Computing for Economists (Instructor: Shunsuke Tsuda)	Spring 2023
• Big Data (Professor: Daniel Bjorkegren)	Fall 2022
• Inequality of Income, Wealth, and Health in the U.S. (Professor: David N. Weil)	Spring 2021
• Economic Growth (Professor: David N. Weil)	Fall 2020

Teaching Assistant at Howard University

• Data Analysis and Financial Literacy in R	Fall 2018, Spring 2019
---	------------------------

FELLOWSHIPS AND AWARDS

- Bravo Center Research Fund, Brown University 2022, 2025
- Graduate Teaching Award, Brown Economics Department 2024
- PDBF Research Fund, Brown University 2022
- Population Studies Training Center NICHD T32 Fellowship 2021 – 2022
- Berkeley/Sloan Summer School in Environmental & Energy Economics Fellowship 2020
- Stephen R. Ehrlich Fellowship for First-Year Ph.D. in Economics 2019 – 2020
- Dean’s List, Columbia University 2013 – 2017

OTHER

- Referee: Journal of Economic Growth
- Presentations: 2025 AERE Summer Conference, 2025 Berkeley Workshop on Formal Demography (Flash), 2025 Population Association of America (Poster), 2023 Seoul National University Climate & Environmental Research Workshop, 2016 AEA Mentoring Pipeline Conference
- Affiliations: Brown Population Studies & Training Center, Institute at Brown for Environment & Society
- Service: Growth Breakfast Co-organizer, Brown University (2022 - Present), Brown Economics Department Diversity and Inclusion Committee (2021 - 2023)
- Software: ArcGIS, FAME, Julia, LaTeX, PTC Creo, Python, R, Stata
- Languages: English (fluent); Korean (fluent); Spanish (basic)
- Citizenship: Republic of Korea; United States of America